

Naltali Unit of Berger Paints India has received the CII Energy Excellence Award at the 14th ENCON Awards 2021

We are pleased to announce that our Naltali Unit has clinched the prestigious CII Energy Excellence Award at the 14th Energy Conservation Award (ENCON) under the North-East region.

The awards are hosted by Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) and its objective is to recognise and award those businesses who are making serious, systematic and commendable attempts for efficient utilisation and working towards significant improvement in conservation of energy.

This platform facilitates sharing of information by outstanding energy-efficient companies from different regions across the nation.

The award also strives to instil a sense of competition and motivate other plants to achieve excellence and establish futurity by pinpointing Carbon Emission Reduction (CDM/VER Project) initiatives focused on energy conservation.

A robust methodology was followed wherein companies were short-listed based on a questionnaire and invited to present at the competition. Based on the presentation, the panel of judges selected the best amongst the shortlisted.

This recognition stands as testimony of our focus and dedication towards exploring energy efficiency through best practices and carrying out innovative initiatives in our daily operations, thereby taking us closer to our sustainable development goals.

We shall continue our efforts towards managing energy efficiently.
